Colloquium, Fall 2019
Tuesdays, 12:10 - 2 p.m.
Barnard College, Columbia University

Office Hours: Mondays, 5 - 7 p.m.

You can schedule an appointment during my office hours by clicking here. Walk-ins are of course welcome – on a first come, first served basis. However, I give priority to people who have scheduled an appointment, so you are better off doing that if you do not want to wait.

Substance of the Course

How can we build peace in the aftermath of extensive violence? Is that even possible? Wars often destroy existing governance structures. They create deep resentment over past injustices and human rights violations. They divide couples, families, communities, and societies, pitting members against each other. These challenges are so significant that many countries that emerge from war lapse back into violence within a few years. However, certain communities manage to maintain some stability and eventually escape the cycle of war and violence. How do they do that?

One key element in this process is the presence of international peacebuilders. International interventions have multiplied since the end of the Cold War, with United Nations operations, non-governmental agencies, diplomatic missions, and regional organizations have become increasingly numerous and influential. These external contributions can mean the difference between war and peace: Regardless of local conditions, foreign peace interventions increase the chances of establishing a durable peace. However, international peacebuilding interventions face multiple challenges, and sometimes they actually worsen the problems that they mean to address. Why do so many international interventions fail to bring about peace? Why do others succeed? What are the most useful frameworks for analyzing international peace efforts?

This colloquium focuses on international peacemaking, peacekeeping, and peacebuilding in recent conflicts. It adopts a critical, social science approach to the topic of building peace (it is not a class on how to design and implement peacebuilding programs, but rather a class on how to think about such initiatives). Readings for this course are drawn from a variety of disciplines (political science, anthropology, psychology, and others), approaches (rational choice, constructivist), and methodologies (qualitative and quantitative). They include both highly theoretical works and case studies.

Throughout the course, students will develop their knowledge of international relations theories. They will acquire a broad understanding of the concepts, theoretical traditions, and debates in the study of peacemaking, peacekeeping, and peacebuilding. The course also will introduce students to new issues in the field, such as the micro-foundations of peace settlements, the importance of local perceptions, and the attention to the everyday in the study of conflict-resolution. Furthermore, by the end of the semester, students should have an in-depth understanding of some of the most salient peace processes in recent years, including those in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Rwanda, and the former Yugoslavia.

Class discussions and written assignments will help students develop their research and analysis skills as well as their ability to understand, criticize, and create scholarly arguments. In addition, this class puts a lot of emphasis on developing students' leadership and oral presentation skills. We will do so through various activities, including class discussions, oral presentations, role play, and student-led discussions.

Grading and Requirements

1. Readings: Assignments are on the attached list.
The required books are available at the Columbia University Bookstore. Many of them are also available online for free through the Columbia University library website. In addition, all of these books are on reserve at the library, under course number POLS BC 3411. Whenever authorized by copyright laws, I have placed specific book chapters on electronic reserves for the class (accessible through Coursework). And if you want to purchase the books but don't have the means to do so, look at <https://www.columbiaspectator.com/spectrum/2018/06/12/on-avoiding-book-culture-how-and-where-to-get-cheap-textbooks/>.
2. Class participation (15% of the final grade). The class participation grade will be based on 1- participation in the discussion during each session; 2- the oral presentation on week 9; 3- brief oral presentations on topics assigned by the instructor; 4- the oral presentation and discussions during weeks 11 and 12 (see the last two pages of this syllabus), and 5-: quality of the feedback provided to your peer partner throughout the semester (grade given by the peer partner).
3. One review of the readings (20% of the final grade), two pages single-spaced. The review should briefly summarize the argument all of the required readings assigned for that week, and it should use the rest of the space to assess the required readings critically, evaluating their strengths and weaknesses. The summary of the required readings should be half a page maximum in total, so that the bulk of the review (the 1.5 pages remaining) can be devoted to a discussion of the strengths and weaknesses of the various required texts.
Reviews should be submitted by the beginning of the class during which we will discuss the required readings that the review focuses on (meaning, Tuesday, 12:10 p.m.). Please bring a hard copy to class and upload an electronic copy on coursework.
Reviews can be submitted on any week until week 8. No need to sign up or give me advance notice, simply submit a review for a session of your own choosing. But please keep in mind that 12:10 p.m. is a hard deadline – I won't accept any late reviews (even reviews submitted later on Tuesdays), and the last opportunity to submit a reading review is on October 22.

Side note: Book reviews are tremendously important for authors and readers. So I encourage you to post relevant sections of your book reviews online (on Amazon, Goodreads, Barnes and Noble, Wikipedia, Bookbub, and/or whatever site you prefer). This would help raise the profile of the various books that we read this semester, be a kind gesture to their authors, and hopefully help potential readers decide whether or not to buy the book.
4. A memo on your actor's position during the mock peace talks on week 9 (15 % of the final grade), one page single-spaced. Please bring a hard copy to class and upload an electronic copy on coursework.
5. A research paper (50% of the final grade), 25 to 30 pages double-spaced. Ancillary material due throughout the term: research question due on week 3 (10% of the final grade); revised research question and 1-page outline due on week 9 (15% of the final grade); final paper due on week 13, i.e. December 3, the last day of class (25% of the final grade). Please bring a hard copy to class and upload an electronic copy on coursework. The research paper should build on the material studied in class. It should apply the theories and concepts studied to specific debates or cases of interest to the students.

All material must be typed.

No late review will be accepted. For the research paper & ancillary material, late submissions will be penalized one-third of a letter grade per day after the deadline unless you contact me beforehand to request an extension. Extensions will be given only in the case of documented illness, family emergency, or another crisis situation (please bring any form of documentation available).

Please inform me beforehand if you expect to miss particular class meetings because of a religious holiday that forbids work, an illness, or a family emergency. Please plan to write an additional review of the readings on the readings assigned for that day (in addition to the one review required this semester), post it online (on Amazon, Goodreads, Barnes and Noble, Wikipedia, and/or whatever site your prefer), and email me a link to your posted review. (No need to give me a printed copy). This extra review will make up for missed participation and will count towards your participation grade.

Barnard Honor Code: We, the students of Barnard College, resolve to uphold the honor of the College by engaging with integrity in all of our academic pursuits. We affirm that academic integrity is the honorable creation and presentation of our own work. We acknowledge that it is our responsibility to seek clarification of proper forms of collaboration and use of academic resources in all assignments or exams. We consider academic integrity to include the proper use and care for all print, electronic, or other academic resources. We will respect the rights of others to engage in pursuit of learning in order to uphold our commitment to honor. We pledge to do all that is in our power to create a spirit of honesty and honor for its own sake.

Here are some very helpful websites for all your questions on intellectual property, citing and documenting sources, avoiding disasters, etc. (And of course don't ever hesitate to ask me if you have any doubts):

- <http://www.library.ucla.edu/b Bruinsuccess> (the tutorial is fun and very useful)
- <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/589/01> (another very helpful site on avoiding plagiarism)
- <http://www.dartmouth.edu/~sources> (very detailed information about how and why to cite sources)

Conversion Scale

- A+: 99 - 100
- A: 93 - 98.99
- A-: 90 - 92.99
- B+: 87 - 89.99
- B: 83 - 86.99
- B-: 80 - 82.99
- C+: 77 - 79.99
- C: 73 - 76.99
- C-: 70 - 72.99
- D: 60 - 69.99 (there is no D+ or D-)
- F: below 60

Electronic Etiquette

Please do not use your cell phones during class for any reason. This will allow more focused discussion and intellectual exchange.

Please use laptops only if this will facilitate bringing readings to class. In other words, the use of laptops (or ipads, etc) in the classroom is only permitted for taking notes on class lectures and discussions. Students are forbidden to use laptops in the classroom to browse the Internet or work on something other than the material discussed in class. Any student who wants to use a computer should give me a written document promising never to use his or her laptop in class for something other than taking notes on class lectures / discussion. Students caught doing otherwise will be given a participation grade of F and will be forbidden to continue to use their laptops during future class sessions.

I aim to be responsive to emails from students. However, please do not expect an answer to your question any sooner than 48 hours (not including weekends) after it is sent. Last-minute email questions and requests are bad for everyone involved. Please also use office hours rather than email if you have any substantive questions.

Additional Requirements for Seniors

All Seniors who have designated this course as the Colloquium to fulfill their Senior Capstone requirement must also complete the following:

1. Provide constructive criticism and feedback to your designated peer partner(s). You and your partner should hold meetings to discuss your assignments, e.g. research questions, paper outlines, rough drafts.
2. Present your main findings in class at the end of the semester. A portion of the class participation grade will reflect the quality of your mentoring and final presentation.
3. Attend at least one of the Senior overviews of the library and online resources hosted by the instructor or another member of the Political Science Department.
4. Generate a poster that summarizes your research question, argument, and findings. The poster is due on the last day of classes (December 3), and it will be displayed at the Senior end-of-year Departmental party in May 2020. The poster will not be graded, but is required to receive a "Pass" for your Senior requirement and will factor into Departmental considerations for Senior Project Distinction. For guidelines, information, and advice on the poster, please see <http://polisci.barnard.edu/node/33896>.
5. Attend at least one of the workshops offered by the Barnard Speaking Program on how to deliver good oral presentations.

Course-Specific Library Resources

Personal librarian for our class: Jennie Correia (jcorreia@barnard.edu; <https://library.barnard.edu/profiles/Jennie-Correia>)

Library research guide: <https://barnard.libguides.com/POLS-X3411-001>

Students with disabilities

Students with disabilities who wish to take this course and who need disability-related accommodations are encouraged to make an appointment to see me as soon as possible. Disabled students who need test or classroom accommodations must be registered in advance with the Office of Disabilities Services.

Wellness

It is important for undergraduates to recognize and identify the different pressures, burdens, and stressors you may be facing, whether personal, emotional, physical, financial, mental, or academic. We as a community urge you to make yourself--your own health, sanity, and wellness--your priority throughout this term and your career here. Sleep, exercise, and eating well can all be a part of a healthy regimen to cope with stress. Resources exist to support you in several sectors of your life, and we encourage you to make use of them.

Should you have any questions about navigating these resources, please visit these sites: <http://barnard.edu/primarycare> or <http://barnard.edu/counseling><http://barnard.edu/wellwoman/about> (Stressbusters Support Network). For more information, call ext. 4-3062 or visit <http://barnard.edu/wellwoman>.

Pre-requisite

POLS UN 1601 (International Politics) or equivalent (such as POLS UN3604 - War, Peace, and International Interventions in Africa).

Learning Objectives

Students who complete this course will learn how to:

1. Apply the major theories of international relations to the study of peacebuilding
2. Integrate and apply conceptual tools and theories from various disciplines, in particular political science, in order to analyze issues related to peacebuilding
3. Develop rigorous and convincing political science arguments
4. Demonstrate knowledge of several salient topics and cases related to peacebuilding
5. Express themselves effectively orally and in writing
6. Perform advanced independent research on political science topics

(September 3) Week 1 – Introduction

Required reading, to be completed before the first class meeting: Please read the first 5 pages of this syllabus very carefully, and browse the rest of this syllabus. Please come to class prepared to ask any clarifying questions you need.

Please remember to fill out and submit your Student Form on Coursework.

(October 29) Week 9 – Governments, Rebels, Activists, and Peacemakers

Assignment in preparation for the role-play: prepare a 1-page single-spaced memo, as well as a 5-minute presentation, on your actor's position during the mock peace talks (bullet points are fine). Recommended sources:

- Any and all of the required and recommended readings for week 7
- The official webpage of your actor (usually easily accessible through a google search), its Twitter account, Facebook page, etc.
- International Crisis Groups' reports on the DRC (available at <https://www.crisisgroup.org/africa/central-africa/democratic-republic-congo>)

Jonathan Cisco. 2014. "Teaching the Literature Review: A Practical Approach for College Instructors," Teaching & Learning Inquiry: The ISSOTL Journal 2(2). Read only pp. 47-52

Paper outline due to the instructor. Your outline should be no longer than one page. Remember to write your (revised) research question at the top of the document.

Conclusion: Your Cases, Puzzles, Debates, and Findings

(November 19 and 26) Weeks 11 and 12 – Your Puzzles, Debates, and Findings

On November 19, senior students who have chosen this class as their capstone requirement will give a 10-minute presentation of their papers followed by Q&As. Such students should use PowerPoint slides

(or similar kinds of visual aids) to illustrate their presentations, and complete a one-on-one training session with the Speaking Program in order to prepare for their oral presentation.

On November 26, every other colloquium participant will do a 3 to 5-minute presentation of his / her research paper (topic, puzzle, main argument).

Each student will also send his/her draft paper to his/her peer partner by November 15, and copy me on the message. Each student will be responsible for preparing constructive criticism of his/her peer partner's paper, and present his/her feedback during the class on November 19. After all the capstone students have presented their papers, we will break into small groups and each student will get constructive criticisms from his/her peer partner.
